

New home for assessor resources

February 2009

The ETITO online assessor resources have undergone a bit of a revamp and now have a new look and a new location on the ETITO website. Although there have been some adjustments, the content has remained much the same, and most importantly your login hasn't changed.

One new addition is the introduction of an integrated assessment package, if you're not currently using this and would like to, please contact your ETITO learning and assessment consultant.

You can still access the assessor resources through the links on the ETITO website [including the assessor button on the home page] or you can save the following link as a favourite <http://www.etito.co.nz/user/login.sm>

If you need access to more than one set of resources please contact your ETITO learning and assessment consultant who can arrange a new login for you.
